

LECTURE

PROFESSOR
ALISON YOUNG
Public Law
University of Oxford

Brexit and the UK Constitution Where Are We Now, and Where Are We Going?

- ▶ Monday, 9 January 2017, 17:00 hours s.t.
- ▶ Centre for British Studies, Mohrenstr. 60, 10117 Berlin

For last-minute changes please
▶ see our website www.gbz.hu-berlin.de
▶ or call: (030) 2093 99040

This lecture examines the constitutional implications of Brexit. It draws on the litigation challenging whether the UK can trigger Article 50 by use of the prerogative alone. It also examines the constitutional implications of Brexit more broadly, e.g. for parliamentary sovereignty and for the role of the judiciary, for the devolved legislatures and the stability of the Union.

Alison Young is a Professor of Public Law at the University of Oxford and a Fellow and Tutor in Law at Hertford College. She has published widely in the area of public law, specifically looking at the UK Constitution and constitutional protections of human rights, as well as commenting on the recent Miller litigation.

Everyone is welcome to attend.

Funded by Future Concept resources of Humboldt-Universität zu Berlin through the Excellence Initiative of the German Federal Government and its Federal States.